HOW NOT TO BE POPULAR

DESCRIPTION: Maddie tries to be nice to everyone. Even weird, chicken-obsessed Tahlia. BUT she'd way prefer to hang out with the cool K-girls at school. The only problem is that they don't seem interested in her, at least not until Year 6 camp. That's when Maddie has a decision to make: how far will she go to be popular? Will she be able to live with the guilt when she finally has everything she's been hoping for? Follow Maddie's hilarious antics with chickens, secrets and undies in the latest adventure at Kangaroo Valley Public School.

Genre/Themes: school, popularity, friendship, bullying

DESCRIPTION: A disaster has happened. Muttonbird Bay School might be closing. I mean, FOREVER. Juno Jones loves her school. She does not want to have to go to the posh school up the hill or the one down the hill next to the sewage treatment plant. But the Men in Suits want to close Muttonbird Bay Primary down. And there's only one thing Juno and her classmates can do to stop it ... Read. Which is perfectly fine for people like Perfect Paloma, but Juno Jones is A Kid Who Doesn't Like Reading. Will she be able to learn to like it in time to save her beloved school? It might take the unthinkable to make it happen. Juno Jones might need to become... A WORD NINJA!

Genre/Themes: humour, friendship, school, activism, bullying, breaking stereotypes, writing, reading, aliens and ninjas!

THE ADVENTUROUS PRINCESS AND OTHER FEMINIST FAIRY TALES

ISBN: 978-1925652994 (hardback)
Author: Erin-Claire Barrow
Release Date: 5 March 2019
Publisher: Odyssey Books
Age: General | Pages: 60
Trim: 29.7 x 21 cm

RRP: $24.95

DESCRIPTION: What if Beauty stood up to the Beast, the Princess never tried to sleep on the pea (and wouldn't have noticed it if she had), and the Swan Maiden took her revenge on the hunter who kidnapped her? The Adventurous Princess and other feminist fairy tales is a retelling of nine traditional fairy tales with a feminist twist. Fairy tales open up new worlds full of enchantment and adventure, but many of these traditional stories also reinforce rigid gender roles and norms, perpetuate stereotypes, and lack diversity in their characters. In The Adventurous Princess, the charm, whimsy, and magic of traditional fairy tales remain, but the diverse characters challenge stereotypes about who they should be or how they should act, stand up for themselves, and shape their own futures.

ONLY FREAKS TURN THINGS INTO BONES

ISBN: 978-1925652970 (hardback)
Author: Steff Green
Illustrator: Bree Boldán
Release Date: 5 March 2019
Publisher: Odyssey Books
Age: Children | Pages: 40
Trim: 29.7 x 21 cm

RRP: $19.95

DESCRIPTION: It's Little Grim's first day at his new school. He's excited about making new friends, but the other kids don't like his talent for turning anything he touches into bones. They call him "freak" and "weirdo" and refuse to play with him. Little Grim runs away to hide but ends up learning something very important about being different. Written and illustrated by two artists who were victims of bullying themselves, Only Freaks Turn Things Into Bones uses darkly gothic humour to address the very real issue of being different.

Genre/Themes: self-esteem, diversity, school, bullying, friendship

DESCRIPTION: Captain Jared Carter and the Navy cruiser Hattan have helped liberate an alien race from the clutches of darkness, but at a terrible cost of lives and ships. While regrouping, they receive word that a shocking fate has befallen the Confederacy during the Hattan's distant campaign. Jared and his crew face the prospect that their home as they knew it is no more. Danger now threatens them on two fronts: ahead, in the empire of the Domain, and behind, in the warring factions of the former Confederacy. The Hattan battle fleet must split up in hopes of combating both evils—their separate destinations leading to a singular enemy...

DESCRIPTION: Microbiologist Graysha Brady-Phillips accepts a hazardous position assisting in terraforming the planet Goddard, partly to get out of debt and partly in desperate hope. There's a chance that the colonists are conducting illegal genetic research, which could provide a cure for the genetic disorder slowly killing her. But genetic engineering is banned by the powerful Eugenics Board, and Graysha is the daughter of the board's high commissioner. When the colonists discover her connection, she is ostracized—for the possible penalties for conducting their radical research include death. Graysha tries to pursue her profession and befriend the colonists, but soon she is dodging attempts on her life. When her new world is pushed to the brink, Graysha must decide what she will cling to.

The immigrant experience is one that millions of people have gone through—or are going through right now. As people from around the world find a new home, they bring with them the families they love and the traditions that bind them together. They also bring a long history of sharing meals together, eating foods and dishes that have been passed down for centuries. In this series, the shared experience of eating together becomes the framework for examining the immigrant experiences of a wide range of nationalities and cultures. Each has a unique story of what they left behind, why they had to move, and what they found when they re-settled. Meanwhile, African Americans and Native Americans each went through their own much more difficult relocation experiences and this series includes volumes on the food and culture of those important groups, too. All groups of people who have moved, for whatever reason, however, share a desire to maintain their long-held traditions while at the same time making new ones in their new homelands. Through food, family, dining, and tradition, they connect their new lives with their old ones.

“Leadership Skills and Character Building. Leaders are made rather than born.”
— Warren Bennis.
Leadership Studies Pioneer.

This series explodes the myth that leadership can’t be taught. In fact, everyone can teach themselves leadership skills if they put their mind to it, and the sooner students understand the qualities of their own character, the sooner they can make positive changes.

Leadership Skills and Character Building is a series designed to help students acquire a deeper understanding of the character and leadership skills they need for a successful, happy, and well-rounded life. Each book in the series guides young readers as they explore the importance of grit, communications skills, cooperation, problem solving, integrity, self-confidence, and more.

Parents and schools often emphasize the importance of academic achievement, but success in life also requires good social skills. This series encourages students to develop a broad set of such skills, including creativity, initiative, perseverance, tolerance, a sense of responsibility, and self-discipline, and to put these skills into practice.

A biome is a very large ecological area, with plants and animals that are adapted to the environmental conditions there. Biomes are usually defined by physical characteristics—such as climate, geology, or vegetation—rather than by the animals that live there. Plants and animals within the biome have all evolved special adaptations that make it possible for them to live in that area.

THE WORLD’S BIOMES series provides information on five of the most important biomes in the world today: deserts, grasslands, oceans, rainforests, and wetlands. A variety of useful features supplement the texts, including glossary terms, sources for further information, links to educational videos, and ideas for projects and reports.
