Thirteen and Underwater: One Mum's Heart-Warming Journey

RRP: $28.99 (General Fiction) NOW AVAILABLE

Author: Michelle Weitering | Publisher: Karen MC Dermott | Date: 25/05/2019

Format: Paperback (pages: 326) | Size: 15.24 x 22.86 cm

DESCRIPTION: Thirteen and Underwater is an emotionally-charged true story, based on a young man's dark journey of anxiety. Told with a mother's insight, Thirteen and Underwater divulges a life full of love and laughter and reveals the tiny claws of anguish that turn into sharp talons of despair, as her beloved son grows from childhood, into a defeated teenager, grasping at the reins of uncontrollable anger and isolation. As his mother, fighting to do what society expects of her while facing the incalculable loss of her son's sense of self, the writer questions herself constantly, with the emotionally draining barrage of, 'What am I doing wrong?' Yet she tells their story with characteristic candour and humour. This is the story of one family's survival, reflecting billions in a worldwide epidemic. It explores how anxiety can severely affect not just a little boy trying to fight the unseen predator that is mental illness, but the entire family. Their journey together shows them from their happiest times, to their very bleakest. It is an inspirational story of one family's refusal to give in to the nightmare caused by anxiety.

DESCRIPTION: Even before its completion and official opening in January, 1903, the Sydney Sanitarium had admitted and treated its first patient. Situated on a hilltop in the then-rural locality of Wahroonga, the hospital's mission would reach around the world, lead innovation in medical, nursing and ethical practice, and continue to adapt to the changing healthcare needs, environment and economy. Sydney Adventist Hospital—still affectionately known to many as "The San"—is a landmark in Sydney's northern suburbs. A pioneer in wholistic healthcare, the hospital is committed to health of body, mind and spirit for its patients, staff and community. This is a collection of stories from the history of the San, as well as reflections on how this history has been shaped by mission and what it means to be a hospital with a mission today. Written by contributors with many years' experience at Sydney Adventist Hospital, these are stories of "Christianity in Action".

What followed was an illustrious, and at times, hazardous career that saw him interview stars from Cary Grant to The Rolling Stones; tackle North Queensland radio and crocs; take on the stories of the day and the stories no-one wanted on A Current Affair, Today Tonight and Good Morning Australia; and report at two royal weddings that didn't end well (he wasn't invited to do a third).
